

To Whom it May Concern

An investment and research analyst creates financial models and summarizes the projections in pitch decks. Mr. Ashis Ghosh has proved his competence in these roles during his internship under my supervision from January 1, 2022, and March 31, 2022.

The formulation of financial projections is an iterative process and quite tedious at times, but Ashis' diligence and persistent efforts made it possible to complete the entire project successfully. He correctly identified the firm's requirements and developed innovative solutions to model the different business streams.

His integrity and cheerful personality made Ashis a delight to have on the team. He showcased superb communication and coordination skills, continuously interacting with the senior management to create the perfect models to reflect the firm's future endeavours. He strives for perfection in his deliverables, which is observable in all the other traits he has showcased during his internship.

It is my pleasure to recommend Ashis for his skills in financial modelling and business valuations. I believe he will continue to showcase professional excellence in his future endeavours and wish him all the success in his life.
